ANOTHER DETERMINED ENEMY ATTACK.

HEAVILY REPULSED BY THE FRENCH.

London, July 16.

A French communiqué reports:— After a bombardment, a series of coups de main by the enemy between the Somme and the Aisne, and an attempt to the south-east of St.
Quentin and west of Allent, failed under our fire.

An attack by several detachments on our small posts to the south of Corbeny was completely repulsed after a very lively fight.

We progressed to the south of Allent and took some prisoners.

After a very violent bombardment in the regions of Mont Haut and Teton, large forces of Germans attacked the position we captured on July 14. Our troops resisted with indomitable energy and tenacity, the enemy being greatly superior in numbers. The enemy efforts at Teton were also unsuccessful. The assaults, who suffered very heavy losses, were unable to break into our lines.

There was obstinate fighting all night at Mont Haut. The enemy who at first succeeded in retaking the greater part of the captured ground, was driven back by our brilliant counter-attacks. At present, only some portions of the trenches remain in the enemy's hands.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

London, July 16.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports:—

We repulsed raids to the northwest of Fontaine-les-Croisilles and near Armentieres.

We successfully carried out a midnight raid.

THE VANGUARD'S DEATH ROLL.

London, July 16.

Eight hundred and four people perished in the sinking of H.M.S.

Vanguard.

HYDERABAD'S AID IN THE WAR.

Hyderabad, July 16.

The British Resident, speaking at a banquet given by the Nizam, referred to the exalted part His Highness had played in the war. He mentioned that the Hyderabad Regiment was among the first of the Indian troops to leave for Egypt, and they were still serving there.

The State of Hyderabad is still defraying the full expenses of this and also of a second cavalry regiment, amounting altogether to three lakhs of Rupees monthly, which will be continued, however long hostilities endure. Early in 1917, the Nizam telegraphed to the Admiralty £100,000 towards combating unrestricted submarine warfare, and last month he invested 75 lakhs of Rupees in the Indian War Loan, apart from 25 lakhs of Rupees privately subscribed. The speaker paid a further tribute to the Nizam for the latter's appeal to the Mohammedans to stand loyal to the King-Emperor, when Germany forced Turkey to join her.

SINN FEINISM.

London, July 16.

Mr. L. Ginnell, M.P., the Independent Nationalist Member for Westmorland, told a Sinn Fein demonstration at Mullingar that he was retiring from Westminster to devote himself to Sinn Fein in Ireland.

THE NEW GERMAN CHANCELLOR.

A MOST SURPRISING SELECTION.

Zurich, July 16.

The Frankfurter Zeitung states that the appointment of Herr Michaelis is most surprising. His name has never seriously been mentioned for such a high post. He is the first middle-class Chancellor and a Prussian in the best sense of the word. The paper says: "We do not know what sort of a statesman he will make; if he is to be a success he must co-operate with the Majority of the Reichstag including the Left parties."

The Mauthausen Volksstimme, the leading Socialist organ in Baden, says that Herr Michaelis' insight into the economic distress of the people, as Food Controller, should preserve him from over-estimating the strength of Germany and pursuing a policy beyond her strength.
The paper promises the support of the Socialists, if Herr Michaelis co-operates with the United Majority parties. The paper concludes by saying that "Peace and freedom must be the new Chancellor's programme."

London, July 16.

The few German comments on the appointment of Herr Michaelis appointment are, so far, confusing.
They confirm, however, the appreciation of the British newspapers that the new Chancellor is an unknown quantity. It remains to be shown whether he will prove a strong man or a puppet.

The Berliner Tageblatt complains that Herr Michaelis has been appointed without Parliament being consulted.

The Cologne Volkszeitung states that the German people, for two years, have wanted a strong man and Herr Michaelis is apparently a purposeful personality.

It is significant that the Tagliche Rundschau, the military organ, welcomes Herr Michaelis as the possessor of unusual energy like Field-Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, while Theodore Wolff, writing in the Berliner Tageblatt, prior to Dr. von Bethman-Hollweg's resignation, said that if Dr. von Bethman-Hollweg resigned it would mean the coming prominence of the Crown Prince, which was scarcely likely to increase the possibilities of peace.

There are no comments, so far, in the Austrian papers.

London, July 16.

A message from Berlin states that Herr Michaelis will also be Foreign Secretary.

REICHSTAG ADJOURNED.

AMSTERDAM, July 16.

A message from Berlin states that the Reichstag has adjourned indefinitely.

RUSSIAN FEDERAL REPUBLIC FORESHADOWED.

KIEV, July 16.

M. Kerensky, Minister of War, addressing the representatives of the Ukrainian peasants, foreshadowed the creation of a Russian Federal Republic.

SCOTS AT GUENAPPE.

FINE EPISODES OF A DESPERATE FIGHT.

Detailing how Scottish troops captured Guenappe in the battle of Arras Mr Philip Gibbs, in the Daily Chronicle says:—

It is a great episode in the history of the Scottish troops in France.

It was fighting which lasted for nearly a week, after an hour of attack in the first daylight of April 23. At that hour long waves of Highland regiments left the trenches they had dug under shellfire, and went forward towards Guenappe. They were faced at once by blasts of machine-gun fire, and although our artillery barrage crashed across the field, some of the German strong points were still held in force.

At one about which I know most, there was a gap between the advancing waves owing to the feeble light of dawn, in which the men could only dimly see, but this was filled up by troops from the supporting lines. For nearly three hours the Scots were held up by the fire of the German machine guns and artillery, and suffered many casualties, but they fought on each little group of men setting with separate initiative, and it is to their credit that they held their ground, and destroyed every machine gun post in front of them.

One sergeant fought his way down a bit of trench alone and, knocked out the gun crew, so that the line could advance.
Two hundred prisoners were taken in that first forward sweep when the killed men advanced in long lines and went through and beyond the village of Guenappe with loud shouts and cheers.
They were checked again by machine-gun fire from many different directions, and immediately from the ruin called Cavalry Farm ahead of them. This was afterwards cleared, and many Germans lie dead there.

REMY'S DESPERATE ATTACK.

Then, between eleven and twelve in the morning, the enemy developed his fierce counter-attack. He massed large masses of men in the valley below Guenappe, flung a vast storm of shells on to the village, and then sent forward his troops to work round the spur on which the Highlanders held their line.

It was then that these Scottish troops showed their fierce and stubborn fighting spirit. They tore rents in the lines of the advancing Germans with Lewis gun fire and machine-gun fire, and the enemy losses were severe, so that the supporting troops pressed over lines of dead comrades.
But the attack was pressed by a big mass of men, and the thin lines of Scots, exhausted by long hours of fighting, were forced to swing back, but we know that the first reports were wrong when it was said that the enemy retook Guenappe for a time. He never set foot in it again, though the Scottish line fell back.

Little groups of Highland officers and men refused to retreat. Some of them held the cemetery, and defended it against all attacks. An officer with seventy men remained in the north of the village for four hours, though they had no protection on either flank.

AN OFFICER AND TWELVE MEN.

One officer and twelve men at another spot decided to leave during the retirement, and were found still holding out when their comrades renounced their attack and regained the ground. Another officer lost all the men of his machine-gun team, but brought up the LAST HOURS OF RACING.

FINE THOROUGHBRED SOLD FOR TWO GUINEAS.

"The condemned man slept well." He ate a hearty breakfast, and walked to the gallows with a firm step. His last words were:—Remember me kindly to Mr.
Kennedy Jones."

If you think of some such figure, or of the burghers of Calais going out to deliver the keys of the town with ropes round their necks, you will have some idea of the frame of mind in which the people of Newmarket went out on the Heath on May 1st, says the "Daily Express," to see the first day's racing of the last Newmarket meeting during the war.

It was a splendid summer day, but Newmarket was a town without a smile, or with a very very smile at the best, and when, after the Two Thousand Guineas Trial Selling Plate, Minister Pall was sold for two guineas, the most stoical racer left, inclined to take out his handkerchief and shed a bitter tear. A horse that might have fetched hundreds a week ago, knocked down for the price of a sack of potatoes! It was tragic.

The Heath looked like a place of mourning, in spite of the jockeys' bright jackets, the "nodding" cowpals among the grass, the philosophical smile of Mr. Bob Sievier, and the red parasol which was carried by one of the ladies who visited the paddock. The enclosure was scarcely half filled, and there were very few women.

Tattersall's ring was almost as full as usual, with the usual crowd of benevolent gentlemen with kind faces and pockets full of notes and silver, which they were happy to hand out to anyone who was lucky enough to back the winner. But their voices seemed less robust than usual, —and after this week their pleasant song of "Two to one, but one!" will no more be heard in the land.

About 150 motor-cars and a small drove of hackney carriages stood harked outside the Stand, but the carriage enclosure beyond was a place of melancholy emptiness. Two or three vehicles hid themselves in one corner, and tried to pretend they were not really there.

On the other side of the course, the townspeople from Newmarket and a small company of strangers—a few wounded soldiers; a sailor or two on leave, who sleazy and broken-down wayfarers, who always find their way to racetracks—gave an air of funeral sadness to the scene. The audience and their wives looked on gloomily, and talked in whispers.

WHAT WOMEN IN THEIR "FORTIES" NEED

MANY women approach the critical changing period of their lives that comes between the ages of forty and fifty. Unmindful of the tremendous importance to their future health and happiness, they are not understanding the functional changes taking place in their bodies, they work beyond their strength, often break down, become nervous, tremble, their bodies suffering with fatigue and their weakened nerves trembling at every step. Often in their weakened condition capillary hemorrhage becomes excessive, this added drain compelling them to take to their beds from nervous exhaustion.

What these women need is something that will instantly relieve the pressure on the overworked nerve centers and give them the vitality to stand up under the grueling strain. Wonderfully effective results are given in such conditions by the simple use of Sargol Tablets, a skilful combination of six of the best nerve and strength vitalizing elements known to modern chemistry. These little tablets contain no dangerous habit-forming drugs and are entirely harmless in their action but they quickly build up and strengthen the entire nervous system by feeding directly to the tired de-vitalized nerve cells, in artificial form, the very necessary elements of which nature is depriving them.

Thousands of women could testify that Sargol Tablets strengthen the tired nerves, revive the tired brain and put the energy and courage into your body that enables you to stand up under the unusual strain of the changing period. If the leading chemists in Hongkong have Sargol Tablets for sale.

"Don't worry, take Sargol."

SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

May 30.

SCOTS IN THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. George N. Barnes had a long time to wait for official rank, but his subsequent promotion has been rapid. One of the least talkative of Labour members, about seven years ago he resigned his position as secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers when the members refused to accept his advice—a courageous act characteristic of the man. He represents the Blackfriars and Hutcheson Division of Glasgow, and as a member of the War Cabinet he follows Mr. Arthur Henderson, who is Glasgow-born although he sits for an English constituency. In a sense, a Glasgow man a Glasgow man succeeds, although Mr. Barnes is really a native of Dundee, and some of his nearest relatives still live in or near that city.

Mr. Barnes' associations with Glasgow, however, have been very close, and despite the fact that politically he is not quite in sympathy with Glasgow feeling, Glasgow is not a little proud of him. The association of Mr. Barnes and Mr. Henderson with the supreme direction of the war does not exhaust Glasgow's interest in the Cabinet. Mr. Bonar Law, although a Canadian, is a Glasgow man in his blood and in his bones. At an election in bygone days Mr. Barnes defeated Mr. Bonar Law in Blackfriars, and Mr. Bonar Law had afterwards to take refuge in England.

That election was a triumph for Labour over Capital. But it left no bitterness behind it. Probably none more frankly admit that the member for Blackfriars will be a greater power in the innermost circles of the Cabinet than his whilom opponent, the member for Bootle. The two men are real live representatives of Labour and Capital. Mr. Barnes is a Socialist, but a sane Socialist; anxious to reform the world on the lines of his particular philosophy; but at the same time he takes the world as he finds it, and makes the best of things pending the arrival of the millennium. Mr. Bonar Law, on the other hand, is above all a business man, ready at any time to do a fair deal; but a business man who demands practical results in the immediate or near future, that will have as their end and aim the stability of Britain and of the whole Empire.

YEATS ON IRELAND AND INDIA.

That very precious Irish poet, W. B. Yeats, was in Edinburgh last week end, lecturing on "Some Poets of my Generation." He attained quite a success in certain circles, especially those affected by the lady teachers of our private schools. A number of Indian students also gathered round him, and afterwards entertained him in the Edinburgh Indian Association Club. He made a short speech to his admirers in which he said we were about to see the effect of India on Europe much in the same way as the effect of Greece on Rome. Yeats is a sort of mystic, and it was understood that he referred to some sort of Indian mysticism. Ireland, he added, had great sympathy for India, and India and Ireland had many things in common in their spiritual achievements.

It was not really a lecture that Yeats delivered; it was rather a chat about a group of young poets, Lionel Johnson, John Davidson, and the like—who founded the post-Tennysonian school of poetry about a quarter of a century ago. He read extracts from the works of his late colleagues, he is the sole survivor of the group, and was prevailed upon to read some of his own verse, much to the delight of his admiring audience. One could not help speculating what the lady teachers, who had brought out rows of girl pupils to hear a real live poet, thought of the performance. If he breaks all the canons of the ordinary lecturer's art, delivers the lines in a low, deep sing-song voice, sometimes it sounds as if he were praying, and he makes many gestures with a tossing hand and twitching fingers. His raven locks are turning grey and are closely cropped. Evidently the long-haired poet has gone out of fashion.

REVEREND CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS.

A debate on the Freeland reprisal bill created something of a sensation in the United Free Assembly. The Rev. Professor Forrest, of Glasgow, condemned a raid which he declared, had for its direct object "the killing of civilians." Shouts of "No, no," did not deter him from calling the raid "abominable," because it involved "dropping bombs on men in their beds or on the streets." In the public galleries the views of Dr. Forrest and those who supported him were strongly objected to. One patriarchal Northern elder afterwards tackled his minister outside and said that the attitude of many of the representatives of the cloth towards Germany was "not only Utopian but illogical." A little crowd gathered round as the elder held forth, arguing that if reprisals were objected to, the war itself should be condemned, for it could not be defended from the point of view of those ministers who "fretted about details." His parting shot was—"It would be disastrous if the hands of the authorities were tied by the reverend conscientious objectors."

By a curious coincidence, at the very moment the Assembly was discussing reprisals German aeroplanes were making their murderous raid on Folkestone.

CHINA'S GREAT FUTURE.

On the Foreign Missions Day of the United Free Church, the principal speaker was the Rev. George Douglas, Manchuia. He described the magnitude of the work in the Far East, where, he said, a glad, new day had dawned. China had begun to move with irresistible force, and where Japan was in the comity of nations today, China would be tomorrow, with manifold greater force, not so much because of her colossal proportions or because of her indomitable stamina, but because of the forces that had brought that mighty movement about. That lever was the preaching of the Gospel. Their descendants 100 years hence, looking back, would regard the Revolution in Russia as secondary in importance and far-reaching effects to the revolution that took place in China six years ago. One heard about a greater conflict between East and West after this war was over. China hated war, and China would ere long be in a position, even commercially, to prevent it. The fear of the "Yellow Peril" coming from the Far East was only a figment of the Kaiser's brain. The main significance of the revolution in China was this—and it was admitted by the leaders of the revolution who brought it about—that it was mainly due to the steady working of the leaven of Christianity in the land.

WARRIAGE.

At West Cotes Parish Church, Edinburgh, Sec. Lieut. James Scott Webster, R.E., only son of the Rev. James Webster, Manchuia, and Mrs. Webster, 5 Belgrave Road, Corstorphine, to Eileen Mary, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, 8, Colbridge Terrace, Edinburgh.

DRAE DITTIES—BACK AGAIN.

Back to the brunt of the same old front.

Back to the same old game, Back to the whine of the Boche five-nine.

Cursed be Krupp's black name; Back to the dust and the water-lust, When you know what a thirst can be,

With a blistered sole and heart like coal.

An' eyes too blurred to see.

Down in the glade 'neath the fir-trees' shade, Under the vast blue tent,

Free in their rest the most of the best—

Strong lives gladly lent, Back to the faith that the turning-lathe

Of the God that made us men, May shape us right for the fur-flung fight.

To end all strife—but when?

William R. Tynan, "Black Watch."

MISCELLANEA.

In an interview in which reference was made to the present boom in poetry, Mr. John Murray, the publisher, speaks of "Ballads of Battle."
